SPECIAL PROJECTS / NGOs

Landscape Project (Projeto Paisagem) was a part of the Rio +20 sustainability conference in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. From June 15 – 22, 2012, thousands of people brought trash from their homes and helped Vik to recreate an image he took of the Guanabara Bay (in the South Zone of Rio). The project promoted sustainability and recycling, showing the public that the trash they might have found useless actually could be reused in many ways, often creating something beautiful. It also broadened the artistic process to include the public; everyone became an artist for the sake of this environmental cause. The final product was an art piece, titled 'Landscape.'

The Quiet of the Land, Everyday Life, Contemporary Art, and Projeto Axé (1999).

The Quiet of the Land was a project where 19 artists along w/ organizer France Morin lived in Salvador, Bahia from April through October of 1999.

They were there to live in the community and partner with Projeto Axé, a local organization that works with the city's street children. The project culminated with a catalogue and exhibition of these collaborative projects. Vik's project, titled Invisible Object, draws its inspiration from Giacometti's sculpture Hands Holding the Void (The Void) from 1934 as well as his own less than affluent youth. Vik asked the kids to draw their desires and to fabricate the objects they drew out of cardboard. These items were ceremoniously put in a black velvet bag. He then made two sets of black and white photographs; of the sculptures, and of the kids holding the void the object would fill.

Muniz states in the catalogue that "By putting the objects away the children would be the creators of their desires and the ones who controlled it. That kind of empowerment is very rare for them. It's a pleasurable feeling of power. I told them that people will make you want things, and you can make these things into symbols and do whatever you want to them and take them out of your system.”

Galpão Aplauso (NGO) – Centro Espacial Vik Muniz (project) – Lancôme (Funds).

The activities with Galpão Aplauso happened over the course of three years, and resulted in the funding of a renovation of a warehouse to host the program’s art school.

Spetaculu (NGO) – Vik Muniz e a Cognição do Olhar (Project) – Louis Vuitton (Funds). 1 year Photography and Art course for 22 underprivileged youth 17-24.
