A Muslim, a Christian and a Jew Knocking on Heaven's Door

Edited by Jürgen B. Tesch
With a preface by Edward van Voolen

HIRMER

Vielleicht fällt es Ihnen in diesen Tagen nicht so stark auf, aber Muslime, Christen und Juden haben vieles gemeinsam. Einen einzigen Gott? Ja, wenn Sie sich nicht an der Dreifaltigkeit stoßen. Und wenn Ihnen die vielen Namen nichts ausmachen, mit denen er bezeichnet und angerufen wird: Gott, Vater, Allah und viele andere. Die drei Religionen teilen dieselbe Bibel? Auf gewisse Weise schon: den Christen galt die jüdische Bibel als alt, so dass sie ihr eine Ergänzung hinzufügten. Die Muslime wiederum stützen sich auf einen völlig unterschiedlichen Text, der dieselben Geschichten auf andere Art erzählt. Die Christen lesen das Alte Testament durch die Brille des Neuen Testaments und mit den Augen Jesu, der diejenigen Teile ignoriert, die er nicht mag. Die Juden sind nicht amused. Hunderte Jahre später löste der Prophet Mohammed das Problem, indem er verkündete: Ihr habt beide Unrecht; Ihr habt die Geschichten völlig missverstanden. Lest meinen Text!

Der Moslem, der Christ und der Jude stehen auf dem Boden einer gemeinsamen Geschichte. Sie sind miteinander verwandt: ein Sohn Abrahams, Ismael, ist der Ahnherr der Muslime, und der andere, Isaak, der Vorfahre der Juden. Und Jesus wurde als Jude geboren. Sie gehören also zu einer Familie, und das erklärt, warum sie sich ähnlich sehen. Typisch für sie ist, dass sie es lieben, zu diskutieren, zu streiten und sich wieder zu versöhnen. Jeder erzählt seine oder ihre Geschichte auf seine oder ihre eigene Weise. Aber sie alle stimmen in einer Sache überein: wenn sie an der Himmelspforte anklopfen und Einlass begehrten, tun sie das nicht nur mit einem gewissen Sinn für Humor, sondern auch, um der Liebe Gottes teilhaftig zu werden.

Eran Shakine hat die Gabe, uns seine Träume von unterschiedlichen Verhaltensweisen in unserem Alltagsleben in seiner einzigartigen Bildsprache zu zeigen.

Edward van Voolen

Perhaps you don't notice it so much these days, but Muslims, Christians and Jews have quite a lot in common.

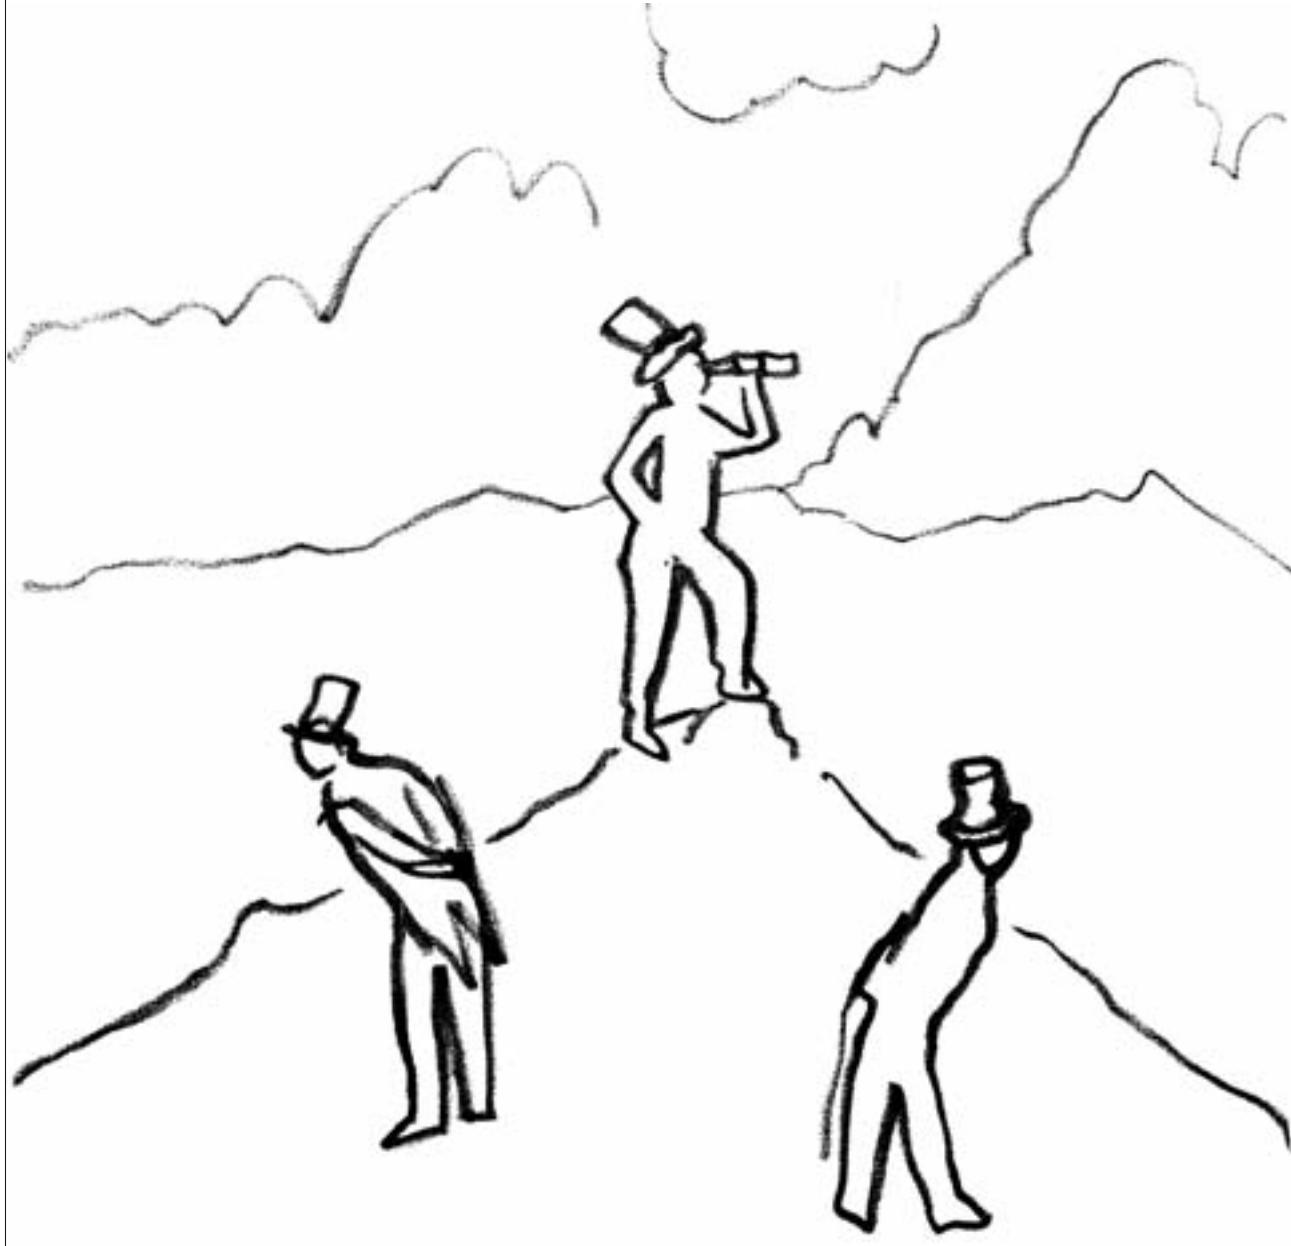

One God? Yes, if you don't stumble over the Trinity. And if you don't care what you call him: G'd, Father, Allah or a number of other names. They share the same Bible? In a way: Christians consider the Jewish Bible old and added a new supplement. Muslims have a different text altogether, and tell the same stories in a different way. Christians read the Old Testament through the eyes of the New Testament and Jesus, who ignores the parts he does not like. Jews are not amused. Hundreds of years later, the Prophet Mohammed solved the problem, saying: you both got it wrong; you misunderstood the stories completely. Read my text!

The Muslim, the Christian and the Jew share a common history. They are related: one son of Abraham, Ismail, is the ancestor of the Muslims; and the other, Isaac, the ancestor of the Jews. And Jesus was born Jewish. So they belong to one family, and that explains why they look alike. Typically, they love to argue, to quarrel and to become reconciled again. Each one tells history or her story in his or her own way. But they all agree on one thing: when they are knocking on Heaven's Door, they do so not only with a sense of humor but also to find the love of God.

In his unique pictorial language Eran Shakine is able to show us his dreams of a different behavior in our daily life.

Eran Shakine

Eran Shakine is an artist who works in different mediums, such as painting, drawing, sculpture and site-specific public art. He was born in 1962 in Israel to a French father and a Hungarian mother, both Holocaust survivors who came to Israel after the Second World War. He lived in Paris, London and for seven years in New York City, where he received the "Art Matters" Scholarship and was the assistant of the COBRA movement artist, Karel Appel. He exhibited one-man shows in The Drawing Center in New York and Mana contemporary New Jersey as well as in London, Paris, Brussels, Toronto and Tel Aviv. His works are in the permanent collections of the British Museum in London; Ludwig Museum in Aachen, Germany; Tel Aviv Museum of Art, Israel and the Israel Museum, Jerusalem as well as many corporate and private collections. He has just installed a permanent public sculpture "You and Me" in the center of Warsaw, Poland and a one-kilometre-long wall sculpture at the Ayalon Darom Highway in Israel.

A book of his paintings and drawings "Sunny Side Up" was published with Hirmer Verlag. Currently he has studios in New York, Warsaw and Tel Aviv.
